13 HAUNTED NIGHTS

Fine Art Reprint

Dear reader, we invite you to enter these dark pages where cursed gardens and haunted forests await. Across 13 Haunted Nights, you will hear ghostly whispers, uncover forgotten pacts, and face ancient evils hiding in the shadows. With each story, old fears are reborn as new nightmares in this chilling collection.

Originally released as daily stories from October 19th to 30th 2024, each tale in this volume draws inspiration from a classic of horror literature. Now gathered with an exclusive 13th story, 13 Haunted Nights builds a night-by-night journey through fear, suspense, and horror history.

The Stygian Society is dedicated to preserving classic tales of the macabre. May these new voices invite you to return to the stories that inspired them.

LOVE LIES DYING

A widow voyages toward paradise in an unmade bed. A ghost builds altars in the hollows between collarbones. A heart sits locked in a box while its owner grows gray at the doorframe. There are endings written in neon light, storm water, and the space where lips once met. These stories contain smoke, sheets, silence, cobblestones and breath held too long...

Issue 5 of The Stygian Zine features the creative works of 12 creators from around the world, each interpreting what happens when love lies dying in their own unique way.

DARK FLOCK

The book cover for 'Dark Flock' features a dark, moody illustration. It depicts a chaotic scene with numerous birds, possibly crows or ravens, flying and attacking a group of people. The people are shown in various states of panic and distress. The background is a deep, dark red or maroon color, with the birds and people rendered in lighter, almost white, tones, creating a high-contrast, horror-like atmosphere.

The book cover for 'The Stygian Collection' is a black and white illustration. It features a central figure, possibly a woman, with a pale, ghostly face and long, flowing hair. She is surrounded by swirling, ethereal smoke or mist. In the background, there are several skulls and other dark, macabre elements, suggesting a theme of death and the supernatural. The overall style is reminiscent of classic horror or gothic art.

THE STYGIAN ZINE

ISSUE 1 | JANUARY 2024

Welcome to "The Stygian Zine," where literary rebels find their voice and offbeat tales thrive. Issue 1, similar to our first publication "The Stygian Collection", explores the concept of Stygian itself.

Featuring written works by 14 creators and artistic contributions from 4 creators, we invited you to explore the darkness with us once again in this inaugural publication.

PRICE $14

ISSUE 2 | JULY 2024

Issue 2, "The Witching Hour", explores the mystic and the arcane, bringing you stories and poems that touch on the timeless allure of witches – both the dark, and light sides of them.

Featuring written works by 10 creators, we invited you to light a candle, draw your circle, and prepare to be spellbound.

PRICE $14

ISSUE 3 | JANUARY 2025

Issue 3, "Slices of Life", delves into the profound beauty and quiet darkness of the everyday. This collection of stories and poems explores the tender, raw, and complex moments that shape us – from love and loss to the small but significant ways we confront the unknown.

Featuring written works by 10 creators, we invite you to pause, reflect, and discover the extraordinary within the ordinary.

MORTAL THINGS

Slated: October 2026

Author: Holly Rhiannon

Genre: Historic Horror / Fantasy

In a quiet Irish village in 1894, dressmaker Bridget Cleary lives between two worlds: the one of hearth and market stalls, and the one whispered about in fireside tales. When a stranger with violet eyes steps from the shadows, Bridget discovers a hidden power that ties her to an ancient rift between realms. Her secret meetings with him stir wonder and danger in equal measure, drawing the attention of a husband who sees only betrayal and a community quick to brand her something other than human. As winter deepens, Bridget is pulled toward a choice that could shatter the life she knows and awaken a force that will change everything.
